

Writer's Workshop

Writer's Workshop

Aspiring Authors, are you ready to make the choice?

Join us for an authentic, high-impact workshop for beginning and advanced writers.

The workshop's focus will be on fiction and the spiritual journey you undertake as you learn to Walk on the Water: Keeping the Spirit, Skill, and Art in your writing.

The publishing world is ever-changing. Learn how to navigate it and benefit from the cumulative experience of our three talented Christian instructors who have successfully published best-selling fiction, non-fiction, picture books, and young adult literature.

Spend focused and intentional time in the track best suited to you, have the opportunity for one-on-one consultations, and engage in community with other writers. We have intentionally designed this retreat to provide you with time to reflect, regain perspective, and find revitalized life for your writing – so that you can make the choices that will take you exactly where your writing can best serve

The workshops' focus will be on writing fiction, around a theme of Choices: What You Write, How You Write, and For Whom You Write.

You bring the creativity. We'll build the space for you to make meaningful gains toward your personal and professional goals, all while surrounded by the soul-stirring beauty of Glen Eyrie.

To be a part of Angela Hunt's Beginner/Intermediate Writing Track, there is no separate application required in addition to your registration for the event.

To be a part of Tim Shoemaker's Advanced Writing Track, the writer must have a first draft of a book completed by the time of the workshops and submit the following application in addition to your registration for the event.

EVENT SPEAKER

Nancy Rue

Nancy Rue

Inspired by Nancy Drew mysteries as a child, Nancy Rue knew by age 10 she would someday be a writer. While teaching high school English after college, she felt God calling her back to her dream of writing. For 14 years, Nancy was a teacher and a writer—often waking up at 4 AM to write before work! Today, she is a full-time writer who still loves to teach at workshops. Her 123 books include the Lily series, the FaithGirlz Bible and the Mean Girl Makeover Trilogy for kids, as well as twelve adult novels including the award winning Reluctant Prophet and Healing Waters. She now offers a writing mentorship program called From Shadow To Shelf (www.fromshadowtoshelf.com) She and her husband, Jim, live in Tennessee. Visit Nancy's website at www.nancyrue.com

Tim Shoemaker

Tim Shoemaker

Tim Shoemaker is the author of fourteen books and is a popular speaker at conferences and schools around the country. He has done volunteer work with youth for over twenty-five years—and still loves it. This love for kids has helped him relate to his reading and listening audience in a unique way.

Code of Silence, book one of his contemporary suspense series, was named in the “Top Ten Crime Novels for Youth” by Booklist.

Tim is passionate about helping kids and adults become true men and women of God. Tim has an energetic style of teaching that helps make even difficult topics clear. He is all about encouraging and equipping writers to do what they do—better. If you want to strengthen your fiction, Tim will show you how to do it.

Happily married for over thirty-eight years, Tim has three grown sons and daughter-in-laws, and lives in Rolling Meadows, Illinois.
